

The real revolution.

Private Opinion.

First uploaded 24th of December 2023 - [last edited 24th of December 2023]

By Aurelsson

As it is almost the end of the year 2023, I thought to write a short article on my view of what a real revolution could look like. If you are interested in my articles and are reading this, I am quite sure that you know the world to be a rather messed up place with lots of deceptions, chaos and suffering.

It doesn't have to be like this. And there is quite a simple solution to turn it around without violence. It requires wisdom, courage and a lot of confidence that it will work out.

You might have seen my articles on the legal system, so you are familiar with the concept of the person and how through that concept billions of people are deceived. The person, also known as the legal fiction, is a dead entity. It is not real. It only exists in the minds of people and on paper. The paper is the birth certificate, passport or ID card. The reason that we are in this gigantic mess is because people identify with that legal fiction and at the same time willingly have given away everything, to play the role of a slave. If you identify with a dead entity, you own nothing. What actually is happening is that you give away your time, energy and labor in exchange for coupons, also known as money. You do this with full consent. The legal system puts everybody into everything we do in society and in relation to everyone else. It is a framework of perpetual contracts that ties us to the slave system. And we are in it by free will, by consent.

It can all stop if you stop identifying with the legal fiction. Soon the digital ID will be here and that means the slavery will be more efficient, based on the same principles. So stop using the ID and refuse the digital ID. That is the real revolution. The revolution starts when you say NO.

This is because the system can only operate if you give it your consent and energy. It needs you.

What happens when you say no? I think you guessed it. You won't be able to use (digital) money, travel, get healthcare, buy food or get any service you want from the system. That can be frightening. But it does not have to be. You are inventive. You will find an alternative way to live. To live outside of the system. Off grid. With like minded people. With dignity. Without the oppression of the system. Find a piece of land and start farming. Make a list of what is really important for you in your life. Contracts with others will be done outside of the legal system and outside of money. Just with personal agreements. With honor. With your word.

Stop fearing dressed-up agents of the system who intimidate you. Without your signature or consent, they can't do anything. No judge can touch you. You just say no without violence. You explain it to them, but without being emotionally invested in what they think of you or what they could do to you. You stand your ground. You say no. Over and over. Because you see it for what it is: The legal system, money and legal contracts are not real. Once you see, you are free. Any fake revolution has something for you to legally sign or agree upon. It is fake. It will ask you for money. It is fake. It is part of an organization that is registered within the legal system. It is fake.

The real revolution starts when you realize that you do not need the legal system or money and have found alternatives to not survive or escape, but to live. To live a dignified life. Yes, the transition will be hard and painful, but not that long. And the payoff of saying no will be worth it.