As I have stated many times before, the legal system is an illusion that exists only in the minds of the people who are members of a country. Through various legal fictions, the legal system is played out to control living individuals and influence their behavior in a set way.

The legal system is a creation of the people, by the people and for the people. It is a creation of living beings to control themselves, i.e. an auto-control system. It is in fact a way to impose the ideas that people have in their heads by means of force, on other people in reality.

The owner of the legal system is also an idea from the minds of the people and has been created to rule over the people. It is a willful theater, set-up by people to forcefully control themselves.

As an example, let's take a known owner and lawmaker, a country. The country is the only owner in its established jurisdiction and rules over its citizens. The country, with its three branches of power and dozens of legal fictions like counties, states, provinces, cities, organizations etc. only rules over legal fictions.

Considering the people who are actually living in the area called the 'country', the country rules only over persons, but not over living individuals. A person is a legal fiction that only exists on paper. The country only has something to say over persons, it has only jurisdiction over all the persons within its jurisdiction, because the country created all the legal fictions and persons.

No law in any country or other type of jurisdiction will ever mention the word 'man' in their laws. The only word that is used in the legal system to denote people is the word 'person' or the local accepted legal fiction term that points to individuals.

Never is there any mention of living beings, because the legal system only deals with dead entities, i.e. legal fictions. This is because no illusion can ever control reality, it is just not possible.

Because the legal system is illusionary, it can never have anything to say over reality. You cannot un-think gravity for example. It is only by controlling the minds of living beings that the legal system has influence over the living beings.

The control over living beings through the illusions in the mind, only happens by consent of the living beings.

So who is executing the ideas of the illusion? Living beings are doing that. Living beings are doing that willingly and in most cases oblivious to the truth. Those ideas become visible in reality through the behavior of living beings.

Why could the legal system have no say over reality? Because the legal system does not own reality. The legal system never created reality. That's why. It only owns fictions. Somebody else owns reality.

The legal system can only ever own fictions, nothing more. It is the fact that living beings act as if they are those legal fictions, those dead beings, those persons, that enables the legal system to have any influence on living beings and subsequently, on reality.

It is through tricking people into acting as if they are the person, it is through having them put on a mask to hide their real identity, it is through having them lie, that this massive scam works.

The key to comprehend this massive scam is to realize that control comes through trickery, through deceiving the mind of living individuals and through consent of living individuals. The key to all of this is the living man or woman, with a real physical body, who pretends that he or she is fictional.

The legal system needs living individuals, because it is them who give life to the dead legal system and the dead fictions. Without people acting a role, there could never be a legal system. The moment people stop acting as the legal fiction, it is game over. It is as simple as that.

And with the collapse of the legal system, people would know that they always had a real owner, with real rules. This real owner already set out a just and fair system in which people could enjoy a maximum state of liberty, with a minimum amount of laws or commands.

Injustice, corruption, wars, pollution, competition, greed and hunger would then end and pain and suffering would reduce to an absolute minimum.

The key to end all of this suffering is to separate reality from fiction, stop acting and align yourself with reality.
